

Chairman's Corner - Introducing Coll MacRury

It is with great pleasure as Chairman that I introduce Coll MacRury as WAMMCO's new Chief Executive Officer.

Over half of Coll's life has been spent in the meat industry. Coll initially started as a cadet before gaining experience in all plant aspects including administration and QA before becoming AFFCO's production manager. An opportunity to work in the marketing and processing sides of the industry attracted Coll to UK to work with Marks and Spencer's and Scot Beef. He then returned to New Zealand to establish the Universal Beef Packers hot boning beef plant. Returning to AFFCO, Coll was in charge of a total redesign of the Rangiuru lamb plant and spent the next 5 years as AFFCO's General Manager of Operations, responsible for running their 12 plants.

Coll's experience is not limited to the meat industry having managed New Zealand's largest kiwi fruit business, a cooperative producing over 35 million trays of fruit each year, plus consulting to many sections of the meat and timber industries and has also run his own child care business.

Coll not only brings a great deal of experience with him but is also very highly qualified for the position. His qualifications include an MBA with honours, a diploma of Business Studies in Management and a diploma in Meat Technology as well as having completed the Coverdale Leadership Course and a Quality Management Course. Whilst in 2000 he completed the General Managers Program through the Australian Graduate School of Management in Sydney.

CEO comment

WAMMCO's new CEO Coll MacRury sees his initial role with the cooperative as addressing Western Australia's declining sheep flock and keeping WAMMCO at the 'cutting edge' of lamb processing technology and marketing.

"I am here, to take stock, to keep things tight and to work with the WAMMCO team to ensure completion of the $5 million boning upgrade at Katanning in time for this year's spring lamb flush. However I believe the WAMMCO model is a highly successful one, with significant scope for future expansion," he said this week.

Whilst welcoming Coll and his wife Sharon and their two children and looking forward to working with him and the expertise that he brings to the position, I cannot let this occasion pass without mentioning the outstanding contribution that Coll's predecessor Des Griffiths made to WAMMCO.

Des served with distinction as CEO for nearly 9 years and in that time lead the Coop from a struggling business to a very strong and financial one. Des retired as CEO on the 9th of April ending his 37 year association with the meat industry in WA. We wish Des and his wife Margaret a long and happy retirement.

Mr MacRury took over from Des Griffiths as WAMMCO CEO on April 14. He said the WA cooperative had an impressive record of upgrades and capital investment over the past 10 years to keep its service costs at Katanning competitive.

"The latest boning room upgrade is designed to improve value adding of our lamb product through better use of labour. Our challenge will be to ensure that these new systems actually add value – not cost."

National Vendor Declarations

The National Livestock Identification Scheme (NLIS) has been developed to enable lifetime traceability of all Australian livestock in the event of a disease outbreak, food safety or residue contamination issues. WAMMCO wishes to remind members of the importance of completing this legally binding document correctly and outline some of the common problems we have with NVD/Waybills. NVDs containing incorrect or conflicting information render the document invalid. Livestock accompanied by an invalid NVD present market access issues and in certain circumstances may well experience costly delays from entering the slaughter process.

All livestock owners must have a registered stock brand even if they only own 1 animal. Along with the brand the producer is allocated an ear mark and Property Identification Code (PIC). The PIC indicates who owns the stock and where they are kept.

You need to register the property where your animals are farmed/reared. If it is not your property (ie. you are agisting stock) then you need to contact DAFWA and have the location of the property registered to your BRAND and they will allocate you a separate PIC for that property. The sheep will not require an additional tag but a separate NVD/Waybill book will be required for this PIC. If you are leasing a property then you must register your brand to that property and this can be added to your existing PIC. The sheep will not require an additional tag or a different NVD.

Only the person or company that registered the brand may use the brand. You are not able to lend or use your brand on stock owned in another name – even if they are family. Each owner must have a separate brand and each brand will have one or more unique PIC's registered to that brand only. They cannot be used by or transferred to another brand. If an owner uses the brand belonging to some-one else (even though they may be related) they are committing an offence.

The owner of the stock must be the trading name that the Department of Agriculture and Food Western Australia have the PIC and brand registered to. If you have changed your trading name contact DAFWA on 97806207 to update your records before stock leave the property.

If you have misplaced your NVD book or run out of NVD forms contact MLA on 1800683111 an request an emergency NVD. If you use someone else's NVD and cross their PIC number out and write yours in it is a misuse of the NVD and LPA can follow up with an audit and you will be jeopardizing your accreditation.

Due to the WAMMCO's export status, before treating livestock with any veterinary drug or chemical, ensure you check the Export Slaughter Interval for the particular product

Co-op comment

The recent appreciation of the Australian dollar against major currencies is having a destabilising effect on global lamb markets. FOB returns are under pressure and customers are being asked to increase CIF (Cost Insurance and Freight) selling prices at a time when the retail and foodservice environment is sensitive to price rises due to the global financial downturn. Despite this, consistent demand for lamb is being maintained with regular shipments continuing into all markets. Revenues remain at historically high levels. This is being assisted by a lower supply out of New Zealand where kills are reported to be back by around 13% for the season compared to last year.

Good sales growth continues to be achieved into the Middle East. In April Australian lamb exports rose by 49% to 3154T compared to last year (DAFF 2009). New markets like Iraq are opening up and helping to sustain solid sales. WAMMCO's sales are following a similar trend. Typically the region sees slower demand during the hotter months of June, July and August when many ex. pats. leave the country for their annual holidays. This year it is likely that strong demand will resume by late August as the region starts to prepare for the busy celebration period following Ramadan in September.

WAMMCO's Marketing Manager, Damien Giumelli and Senior Marketing Executive Meat and Skins, Albert Baker have recently returned from the 14th Gulf Food Expo held in Dubai.

The continued strong demand from the Middle East region for food saw the Expo grow by 20% this year to over 3,300 exhibitors from 75 countries. Along with 17 other Australian meat exporters WAMMCO was part of the Meat & Livestock Australia stand within the Australian Pavilion. Such is the demand to exhibit at this annual show, the Emirates plan to build another exhibition hall ready for next year and it is expected that a further 25% of exhibition space will be available for the Australian contingent.

A visitor to the stand was the Western Australian Minister for Agriculture and Food, the Honourable Mr Terry Redman and this provided time for fruitful discussion on a variety of subjects including WAMMCO's labour problems and ongoing EU Quota issues. The week also provided opportunity to meet and discuss business with clients and potential clients from the Middle East, Europe, America, Africa and Asia.

It was also interesting to meet many chefs from the region's hotels that utilize WAMMCO product. One such chef was Gerald Bergue from the Six Senses Hideaway in Oman who first starting using the WAMMCO brand some ten years ago in Mauritius, insisted on it during a stint in the Maldives and now utilizes the brand at his current residence of employment.
